

Summer 2017: International Financial Accounting

Professor Tim Shaftel

Introduction: This class will focus on issues related to international business with specific emphasis on international accounting practices. The course is designed for students who have taken an introductory course in both financial and managerial accounting.

Accounting has to do with how corporations and others keep track of economic business activity. Since accounting practices differ around the world, otherwise intelligent decision making will be hampered by misinterpretation of accounting information. This course is designed to provide an appreciation of and sensitivity to the cultural, political, and economic differences which give international business its rich and exciting texture. The course explores managerial decision making, evaluation of foreign financial statements, and the impact of different political practices and culture on capital formation.

One of the main objectives of this course is increased student awareness of the wide spectrum of alternative approaches to accounting systems and why they exist. International Accounting Standards have become an important world-wide standard. They, however, represent only one of a myriad of systems used by corporations and individuals everywhere. In fact, individual country GAAP systems are alive and kicking all over the globe. Understanding that accounting systems have evolved from a sequence of past choices and how those choices were and are made will help students to evaluate a wide range of approaches and outcomes using their knowledge, cultural background and accounting intuition.

Class Times and Mandatory Attendance: Please note that class times for this class vary throughout the summer. Due to the program's mandatory attendance policy, a student who will miss class for any reason must obtain permission from the program office. Missed classes will be penalized by one-half letter grade.

Contact Information: Because of the nature of this summer program students will have daily contact with the instructor and should avail themselves of this opportunity to ask questions and seek guidance. Professor Shaftel's email address is tshaftel@ku.edu.

Preparation and Assignments: The weekly schedules provide information about materials to be prepared prior to class and assignments that should be submitted. For the most part these assignments will be designed to fit into your very busy schedule. Schedule changes may result from unique opportunities that are arranged during the session.
