Professor Name: Dr. Michele (Mickey) Bunn
Collat School of Business, University of Alabama at Birmingham
Professor Email: mbunn@uab.edu

Course Description

As an introductory course in marketing, the course provides a broad overview of the fundamental terms and concepts in contemporary marketing as well as an introduction to current real-world marketing strategies.

All of you come into this class with experience in “marketing” because we are all consumers. You will need to think beyond your personal experience to understand how marketing impacts a particular target group of customers (consumers or B-to-B buyers). You will learn how to critically analyze the marketing experience and how managers strategically use marketing to further their organizations goals. We will analyze the basic terms, concepts and principles in marketing and how marketing managers use these principles in developing marketing plans and strategy.

This is an application focused course. As part of the learning environment, we will be reading articles about marketing, discussing cases and analyzing marketing experiences you encounter (advertising, services, retail, internet, mobile, distribution, sales, etc.). A great way to learn about marketing is to apply the principles in your book to the marketing environment that surrounds all of us. What better place to do that than in Italy?

Course Objectives

- Develop an understanding of basic principles and concepts in marketing.
- Be able to define the major concepts in marketing and use the common terminology of marketing in business
- Learn how marketing strategy is applied and used in the business world
- Develop skills in applying marketing and marketing strategy to business opportunities and/or problems.
- Understand how to Brand Yourself

Course Materials & Resources

Textbook: Principles of Marketing by Kotler and Armstrong, 13th Global Edition.

Course Packet: Additional readings and lecture slides are provided. The lecture slides serve as a guide to the course materials and facilitate note taking. The slides only highlight the topics and you must read the book and take notes in class to be successful in the course.

Other Material: Your reading will be supplemented with additional articles, videos, and web-based materials. Always bring the textbook and course packet to class sessions. We will rely on the Canvas course to share information and learning activities.

Course Requirements

The course assignments and assessments of learning are briefly described below. Students should follow carefully the instructions for each assignment and refer to the grading rubrics to understand how your work will be evaluated.

Class preparation and participation: Class sessions include discussions, activities, case analysis and small-group exercises. Daily and weekly class preparation assignments will be posted. Students are expected to complete the assigned readings, speak and contribute to the discussion and listen carefully and respectfully to others.

As part of class preparation, several short quizzes will be given to demonstrate students are keeping up with the readings. These are unannounced and are given at the start of a class session (some students call these “pop” quizzes).

Team assignments:

Students work in groups to analyze a company case and present to the class. This includes updating the textbook information, assessing the current marketing environment and applying core concepts of the class to the company case.

Exams: The exams cover the key concepts of the course. Be sure to take notes in your course pack to focus on the most important concepts. The exams are made up of short answer and essay questions.

Grading

The course requirements and relative weights are shown below.

Course Requirements	% of Grade
Class Preparation and Participation: includes case discussions, small group exercises, “Minute Papers,” and quizzes	30%
Team Assignments: Company case analysis and presentation	10%
Exams: 3 @ 20% each	60%
Total	100%

Grading

The grading policy of the University of Iowa will be followed as a guideline for assigning final grades.

You will receive this grade:	If your total % score falls in this range:
A+	97-100
A	93 – 96.9
A-	90 – 92.99
B+	87 - 89.99
B	83 – 86.99
B-	80 – 82.99
C+	77 - 79.99
C	73 – 76.99
C-	70 – 72.99
D+	67 - 69.99
D	63 – 66.99
D-	60 – 62.99
F	00 - 59.99

The policy implies that grades will be assigned so they are reflective of relative student performance on each assignment in class. Thus, it would be unrealistic to expect that all or most students will receive an “A” grade on any particular assignment.

It is expected that final grade distribution will approximate the recommended guidelines of the Marketing Department at the University of Iowa, which is 20% A’s, 40% B’s, 30% C’s, and 10% D’s, however, such guidelines are only recommendations
